MILITARY EXERCISES IN THE BOG BROOK AREA of Gilead swung into high gear last week, with troops slithering down ropes from helicopters, "shooting" at each other, etc. The maneuvers are part of Exercise Firestorm, involving elements of the 10th Mountain Division and the 10th Special Forces Group. Some residents on the Bog Road, where much of the "fighting" was going on, found the shooting and helicopter noises disturbing and complained to the Army, which thereafter curtailed operations in the fields adjacent to the road. Other residents on the road enjoyed being able to watch the maneuvers and were sorry to see the troops leave. The exercises will conclude Oct. 13.

Selectmen deny permit renewal for Sudbury Inn

For the first time in recent years, the Bethel Board of Selectmen Monday night denied a request for renewal of the entertainment permit of the Sudbury Inn. The Inn, owned by David "Fuzzy" and Cheri Thurston, has had live music in its lounge the past few years and would be unable to continue to host such entertainment without the permit. The present permit expires Oct. 25.

Following the decision by the selectmen, Fuzzy Thurston said he was "amazed" by the vote, which was 4-0. Selectman Victor Coolidge was absent.

Following a public hearing, the selectmen first, on a motion by Pat Dooen, voted 4-0 to renew the Sudbury's liquor license. Following that, on a motion by Peter Haines, the board voted 4-0 to deny the entertainment license.

According to the rules and regulations governing the issuance of entertainment permits, the selectmen must state

SAD #44 receives grant to raise goals of students

The Telstar Aspirations Compact, SAD #44's business/education partnership, was awarded a $2,500 incentive grant from the Maine Aspirations Compact on Sept. 21.

Chris Otten, of Sunday River Ski Resort, and Cathy Newell, SAD #44 Adult and community Education Director, Telstar Compact co-chairs, attended a glittering Augusta ceremony where the SAD #44 compact was named one of seven demonstration compacts statewide.

Governor John R. McKernan Jr., who addressed the assembly in the Hall of Flags at the State House, observed that, "The important work that all of you are doing to raise the aspirations of our children means that the future will be a bright one—for them and for the state."

"When we initiated the Aspirations Compact in January," he said, "we did so out of concern that our young people were not setting their sights high enough and were not aware of their own unique potential."

Twenty-two communities submitted proposals under the state's Aspirations Compact. A statewide advisory group of Planning Board tries new approach to issue of 'change-of-use'

The Bethel Planning Board last Wednesday decided Bill Brown could open his tack shop, next to Breaux Dairy Shop, on Rte. 2, without a site plan review application.

Mr. Brown presented a sketch plan of what he intended to do in the barn next to the dairy shop, and the majority of the board felt his business would not be significantly different from the business that had been there previously—a carpet store.

On a motion by Ginger Kelly, the board voted 5-1 that the sketch plan was completed and the board did not require a site plan review application because it wasn't a significant change of use.

Board member Deb Dohrmann opposed the motion because the proposed commercial use involved the sale of goods and services not normally associated with the previous use, and because the change of business hours should have been reviewed as to a need for lighting in the parking lot.

Previously, in Planning Board discussions regarding change of use in site plan reviews, the board had struggled with what was and what was not a change of use. Thus, Brian Strickland was forced to apply for a site plan review permit when his RFD #1 restaurant was converted into a retail store, and Mary Gillies had to apply for a permit when part of her office building was changed from retail space to office space.

Last Wednesday night was the first time the board had adopted language in-

Local Revolutionary War veteran remembered in ceremony at cemetery

Members of the Amariscooggin Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution officially marked the grave of Simeon Sanborn last Saturday, with a ceremony at the Middle Intervale Cemetery in Bethel.

Simeon Sanborn was born July 5, 1759 and was baptized at Hampton Falls, N.H., July 8, 1759. Early in life he moved to Standish, Maine, with his father. He married Hanna Ward (1763-1850) and she is buried by his side in the Middle Inter-

Andover voters tell CMP they do not want powerline

By a vote of 64-5 Andover residents went on record Monday evening as opposing the Hydro-Quebec high-voltage transmission lines Central Maine Power Company plans to run through the town.

The vote seemingly contradicts a recently released survey, which CMP claims showed strong public support for the powerlines, even in towns along the proposed corridor.

No such support was evident among the 70 people who turned out for Monday evening's special town meeting. They voted overwhelmingly, and almost without discussion, to approve the following resolution: "We, the residents of Andover, Maine, do hereby reject the proposed Central Maine Power/Hydro-Quebec high voltage transmission lines that are to be routed through the town boundaries."

CMP had set up a day-long promotional display in the town hall Monday. Among the posters, maps and newsletters was a flip chart noting that if the lines were to go through, CMP's contribution to town taxes would increase from $7,534 in 1988 to $120,600 yearly during the 29-year life of the contract. But even this pocketbook appeal failed to sway the voters.

Despite the voters' strong support for the anti-CMP resolution, it has little, if any, legal significance in the fight against the powerline.

No Thank Q Hydro-Quebec member Angelo Katsos said later that the resolution was an opportunity for the town to go on record as publicly opposing the project—in an attempt to counter the CMP media blitz which portrays the Hydro-Quebec purchase as having overwhelming public support.

In other matters at Monday evening's meeting, voters belatedly legalized the town's planning board, established the position of code enforcement officer, and transferred $5,500 from the Excise Account to the Fire Department Account.

The town's planning board was set up in 1974, but the ordinance necessary to give it legal standing was never formally adopted at a town meeting.

Voters at Monday evening's meeting rectified that omission, but by the narrow margin of 37-31.

Greenwood selectmen seek greater town power over oil and tire dumps

Faced with the prospect of having Maine's only authorized "tire recycling and storage facility" located in their town, the Greenwood selectmen are asking voters to approve an ordinance giving the town's planning board and code enforcement officer more authority in regulating such projects.

The ordinance is one of three articles on the warrant for a special town meeting next Tuesday, Oct. 11.

Drawn up with help from the Androscoggin Valley Council of Governments, the ordinance would set strict requirements for anyone attempting to locate a waste oil or tire handling/storage/disposal site in the town.

Peter and Mike Gordon, of Bethel, have proposed establishing a tire recycling and storage facility off the Rabbit Road in Greenwood. Selectwoman Marie Bartlett said that the ordinance would not prevent such a project, but it would give the town more power to ensure that it was done properly.

The ordinance also includes financial responsibility requirements, she said, to help ensure that the town is not stuck

Beach purchase on ballot for G'wood meeting

Greenwood residents will become the first in the SAD #44 district to have access to their own town beach—if voters approve a $40,000 real estate purchase on the warrant for a special town meeting next Tuesday.

Voters will also be asked to approve an ordinance regulating waste oil and used tires, and to authorize $20,000 to be spent completing renovations to the former Locke Mills School building.

The town's three selectmen are unanimous in recommending that it's time for the town to buy its own beach. The $40,000 they are asking voters to allocate will be used to purchase a 2.6 acre parcel on South Pond.

"It's absolutely one of the last chances Greenwood people will have to secure access to their lakes," said Selectwoman Marie Bartlett. "We're very, very fortunate to have a shot at this property."

The parcel was offered to the town by Howard and Virginia Cole, of Bethel, who have owned it for many years. According to Mrs. Bartlett, the price the Coles are

Opinions

Who needs democracy anyway

According to the MMA (Maine Municipal Association), democracy means voting for officials and then sitting back and letting them do whatever they please.

That is a very wrong view of democracy. But it is from that view that the MMA has decided that the electorate has no need to know what goes on in the councils of government. When the statewide group of officials and bureaucrats meets this week, they will be discussing how to tighten up what they view as loopholes in the state's Right to Know Law.

The officials and bureaucrats are still smarting from last spring's decision by the state's Supreme Judicial Court in which the City of Bangor was told it was illegal to withhold from the public the names of applicants for a municipal position. The case had been brought by the Bangor Daily News, which had been unsuccessfully trying to find out who the candidates were for the position of police chief.

The MMA argues that making the names of candidates for a position public would cause those considering applying to have second thoughts. The MMA argues that potential candidates would not want present employers to know they were looking to change jobs. And, the MMA argues, if a candidate did not get the new job, he or she would not want the present employer to know that the employee was rejected by someone else.

The MMA further argues that making a job candidate's name public would infringe on that person's civil rights. As long as the public knows how many candidates applied and which one was finally selected, the people paying the salaries—that is, the local residents—have been given enough information.

To accomplish their ends of overturning the state's Right to Know Law, the MMA—according to one of its lawyers working on the matter—wants to add to those documents that can legally be withheld from the public any listing of candidates' names, any working papers prepared by the candidates or municipal officials regarding the candidates, any applications or resumes.

MMA attorney Gary Wood said his organization will try to close the loopholes defined by the Bangor case in the next session of the Legislature. "We're certainly trying to overrule the effect of the case," he said.

Should the MMA succeed in overturning the applicable section of the Right to Know Law, democracy will take one step backward in the State of Maine. After all, democracy is—and should be—that system of government in which the people rule. It is not a system of government in which people merely vote—every sort of dictatorship has elections from time to time. What makes democracy unique is that the people actually rule—particularly in the Town Meeting form of government that has survived in New England.

In order to properly rule, the people need to be informed. Hiring a police chief—or any other public official—is an important matter, and the people should have the widest amount of information on who the candidates are and what their qualifications are. According to the MMA, the people should have the least amount of information on this matter. The MMA says the people have the right to vote their elected officials out of office if they disagree with their decisions made on hiring town employees. MMA doesn't say how the people can form an opinion on whether the hiring process was good or not without knowing what candidates were available.

Those who work in the public sector, and those seeking to work in the public sector, must understand that they do not have the same rights of privacy as those who work in the private sector. The president of a private company does not have to make his tax return public. The President of the United States does. A teacher in a private school does not have to have everyone know what his or her salary is. Teachers in a public school find their salaries discussed in open meetings and usually find the agreed-upon amount published in the newspaper or in some public document.

Persons looking to find new jobs, whether in the private sector or the public sector, will usually give the present employer some hints that they are considering moving on. The fact that one is looking to move does not mean the present employer will feel bitter towards that employee. It's understood in business, as elsewhere, that there are those people who will move as far and as fast as they can, while there are others who will find a position they enjoy and stay there, despite other offers.

The bottom line is that the taxpayers pay the bills and have the right to know what their elected officials are doing. Under the present Right to Know Law, residents have the right to know how their town officials go about making decisions on hiring. If the MMA has its way, this right will be removed.

If you want to maintain this right, you should contact your local elected officials and tell them you oppose the MMA's position. And you should contact your legislative candidates and ask them how they will vote on the matter when it comes before the Legislature. And don't let them duck the issue with phrases such as, "I'll study it," or "I don't know enough about the issue yet." Election day is coming right up, and candidates should be pinned down on the issue if they expect public support.

Arts, crafts & fun on tap this weekend at skiway

The Blue Mountains Arts and Crafts Festival, a celebration of western Maine folk arts, will be held Oct. 8 and 9 in Sunday River Ski Resort's South Ridge Lodge.

This year 40 local artisans will take part, displaying and demonstrating a wide variety of crafts, including hand-painted wooden crafts, quilts, fine arts and Christmas decorations.

The arts and crafts festival, which begin in 1984 in an effort to promote area craftspeople and their wares, will highlight the weekend's activities. Craftspeople will be on hand to perform for the 1988/89 season will feature fashion previews of the latest in ski activewear.

Scott Folsom will entertain both days in the South Ridge Lounge, 1-4:30 p.m., and Resco the Clown will perform for kids of all ages. Weekend activities also include Season Pass Picture Days, pre-season ski fitness tests and a barbecue, including chicken, hotdogs, hamburgers and Italian sausage hoagies.

business, education and government leaders selected the demonstration compact, in conjunction with the Department of Educational and Cultural Services and the Maine Department Foundation, which are administering the program.

The seven compacts that will serve as models are the SAD #44 Compact, along with those from Biddeford/Saco, Eastport, Fort Fairfield, Lewiston/Auburn, Rockland and Old Town/Durham.

Central Maine Power Chairman John Rowe, co-chairman of the state compact, commented, "The most important support that can come from the business community in raising student aspirations is a personal commitment to working with the education community, civic leaders, parents, the entire community in an on-going process at the local level."

"Even as we provide the newest facilities or the best-prepared teachers, we still may not be providing the best opportunity for Maine students to achieve their fullest potential until we help them raise their aspirations," added Maine's Education Commissioner Eve Bither, who co-chairs the compact with Mr. Rowe.

SAD #44's winning proposal will initiate an advisor/mentor program involving teams made up of a Telstar faculty member and an individual from the business community working with small groups of students during their school years from Grade 8 until graduation.

The Aspirations Compact will cooperate with Project Opportunity, led by Les Otten of Sunday River, which is committed to raising funds for aspirations projects and scholarship incentives.

The Steering Committee for the SAD #44 Compact has as members, in addition to Mrs. Newell and Mrs. Otten, Robin Zinchuk, executive director of the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce; Don Bean, local carpenter/builder; Ken Bohr, retired from the World Bank and active community volunteer; Barbara Russell, Telstar teacher and Outward Bound instructor; Sally Hannon and Dan Hart of the Telstar Guidance Department; and Carroll Higgins, Telstar Assistant Principal. Ex officio members are Telstar Principal Ted Davis, SAD #44 Superintendent Dewaine Craig and Melody Bonenna, of Bonenna Pottery, a member of the State Aspirations Compact.

In addition to the grants, presented by Maine Development Foundation President Henry Bourgeois, the compacts will receive assistance and administrative support as they work on their local program. Each will become part of a statewide network of compacts that will exchange information and ideas on the issue of student aspirations.

According to Mrs. Newell, the SAD #44 Aspirations Steering Committee will meet Tuesday, Oct. 4, to outline its plan of work for the next months. Immediate tasks include program design for the advisor/mentor program, recruitment of business members for the Compact, and a public relations plan. Anyone who would like to become involved in activities of the compact is encouraged to call any steering committee member.

GOV. MCKERNAN WAS ONE OF THE STATE OFFICIALS who honored SAD #44 and six other school systems as winners of grants to assist students to raise their aspirations. Chris Otten, of Newry, one of the volunteers of the local Aspirations team, was among the local group that went to Augusta for the ceremony.

and moved to Bethel, where he spent the remainder of his years. He was the father of nine children, eight of whom survived to adulthood.

Leading the festivities was the regent of the Amaranth Chapter, Grace Anna Leeman, assisted by Helen McLeod, historian, and Doris Philbrick, chaplain. Bethel Historical Society Director Stanley R. Howe, host for the group and a Sanborn descendant, served as master of ceremonies.

Remarks on the occasion of the official marking of the gravesite were heard from the president of the Maine Society, Sons of the American Revolution, Ben Harding, of Thomaston. The fall meeting of the Maine SAR was held in Bethel to coincide with this ceremony.

Acquisition of the marker was made possible through a donation from a Sanborn descendant, Mrs. Henry Pusey, of the Bill of Rights Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Woodbridge, Va.

Following the marker ceremony, Elizabeth Mason Carter, of the Middle Intervale Meeting House Society, conducted tours of the Middle Intervale Meeting House, Bethel's oldest surviving meeting house, built in 1816.

WHERE THE JOBS ARE

Although 76.3 percent of all businesses in Maine have fewer than 10 employees, these companies provide only 17.3 percent of all jobs in the state, according to statistics released last week by the Department of Labor.

On the other hand, the largest businesses—those with more than 250 employees—represent only 0.5 percent of all business in the state but account for 25.1 percent of all jobs.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On Sept. 26 I attended a school board meeting and attempted to convince the board to postpone the professional development program for a week or two while the parents were asked what we think. This is the program that gives the elementary school students dismissal at noon every Wednesday.

I don't think we were given enough information on the program before it was approved for us by the board. I only wanted the board to send home some slips of paper through the school asking us how we feel. They chose not to do this. Board member, Stanley Howe, of Bethel, said, "I would vote for this again even if it puts me in direct conflict with my constituents." What that means is that we will vote the way he wants even if it is opposite to the wishes of the voters who put him there. Luckily he is only one member; I believe the rest of the board are open-minded, reasonable people with the conscience to rethink an issue if enough people ask them to.

I told them I would start a petition to try to stop the program. I haven't done that. I decided to help Jane Rolfe with her petition, which merely calls for stopping the early dismissal and allows for professional development time to be after normal school hours. Please read and sign this petition or call a board member. It is the only way the board will know how we feel. More than one board member said they would welcome opinions from the public.

I asked Nancy Davis, principal of Crescent Park School and Ethel Blisbee School, why they couldn't have just one afternoon a month for the program instead of every week. She said it had been tried and the children ended up with nowhere to go because parents would forget. Never in her answer to me did she say that wouldn't be enough time for the program to work, so I have to believe once a month would be enough if the parents got ample reminders of the day designated.

Looked at from another point of view, if one Wednesday a month is time enough to review their new curriculum and develop it and they have four Wednesdays, won't they just be going over the same things after the first few weeks?

I myself don't mind if they have professional development seven days a week as long as the time is not taken from my child's learning the basics. I don't think enough time is spent on reading, writing and arithmetic as it is. The teachers need to stick to basics and drum them into our kids until they are learned. Tell the board how we feel. Call a member or sign the petition. If you don't want your name on paper, please call a board member.

specifically the grounds on which the permit is denied. The reasons given in the motion to deny were that there was a lack of control of the noise (from the bands) and an unresponsiveness (on the part of the owners) to complaints from neighbors.

Neighbors Bob and Linda Saunders, who live on Clark Street, across from the lounge, appeared at the public hearing and, as they have done in the past, complained about the noise and about the apparent unwillingness of the Thurstons to control the noise. Mr. Saunders said, "Noise remains a major problem. It's caused us many nights of lost sleep."

No request from us to reduce the noise has been honored," Mr. Saunders also pointed out that while the regulations for entertainment permits specify there shall be a uniformed constable hired when there are more than 50 people in the audience, he has not seen such a constable. Further, he noted, patrons and employees park too close to the corner of Clark and Main streets, creating a visual barrier for drivers attempting to get onto Main Street.

While the Saunders were the only neighbors present at the hearing, Town Manager Rodney Lynch said he had received a complaint from one other neighbor. The Thurstons did not attend the public hearing, saying they did not want yet another confrontation with the Saunders. Also, they added, they expected the permit renewal would pass easily. (They showed up shortly after the negative vote, but the issue was already decided and Chairman Jordy would not bring it up again.)

Police Chief Eric Wight testified that the music seemed to him to be too loud, even if one liked that kind of music.

Selectman Chairman Arlan Jordy also expressed his displeasure with the management of the lounge. "This has gone on and on. We've tried to get Fuzzy to straighten up his act and he just seems to defy us. They've got to prove to us they can manage the place."

The Thurstons, for their part, said afterwards they felt they had done a good job in restoring what had been a neglected, old establishment. "After the time and expense we've gone to to rehabilitate [the property], we felt betrayed by the selectmen." The Thurstons felt especially betrayed because none of the selectmen had ever visited the lounge to see for themselves what the situation was.

The matter is not likely to rest, as the Thurstons have the right to take the issue to the Board of Appeals. "We are going to the Board of Appeals," Mr. Thurston said. "We think this is ridiculous, bogus and a personal vendetta. We've been subjected to what I think is personal harassment."

Issue could hinge on specifics if appealed

If, as Mr. Thurston promises, the denial of the Sudbury Inn's entertainment license will be taken to the Board of Appeals, that board will likely look closely at some of the specifics in the regulations for issuing entertainment permits.

The regulations, first of all, state that the selectmen, if they deny a permit application, must notify the applicant in writing "with the reason for the denial."

The reasons given by the selectmen in their motion to deny are not specifically listed in the regulations—that is, noise, and unwillingness to reduce the noise.

The conduct constituting offenses by a licensee, according to the regulations, includes disorderly conduct, creation of hazards (as by overcrowding), solicitation of drinks, gambling, and obscenity.

The Board of Appeals may grant the permit if it finds that the permittee's activities would not constitute a detriment to the public health, safety, or welfare, or that the denial was arbitrary or capricious, or that the denial was not based on a preponderance of evidence on a violation of any ordinance, article, by-law, or rule of regulation of the Town of Bethel. Noise, of course, can be deemed a public nuisance or a detriment to public health and safety.

The Thurstons have 30 days in which to appeal the denial by the Board of Selectmen.

LOCAL LOGGERS AT FAIR

Clay Wilson, of West Paris, won the champion logger award at Monday's Woodmen's Field Day at the Fryeburg Fair.

Scott Hayes, of Bryant Pond, placed second in the mechanical log loading event.

To the Editor:

Over the past few weeks, many views have been aired [and] concerns addressed over the early dismissal of elementary students on Wednesdays.

Children in the world today need all the education they can get. We feel they will be the ones coming out on the short end from having the early dismissal. Yes, teachers need time to share ideas, learn new skills, etc., but this should be done without the children being affected.

A comment was made [by a teacher quoted] in last week's Citizen that nurses share ideas over coffee breaks. Nothing can be further from the truth. There are many days we don't even have time for lunch, let alone coffee breaks. When there is a need for us to learn new techniques, share medical skills, etc., we have 7 a.m. medical meetings and have an in-service during our lunch time, if possible. Rarely is time taken away from patient care, and never on a routine basis. In most professional fields—banking, asking is well below what the lot would command on the open market. "They were very kind and generous to give the town this opportunity," Mrs. Bartlett said.

The lot in question straddles the Greenwood Road, just north of Wesley Road and Cummings Brook. Most of the lot (2.3 acres) lies on the inland side of the road. The rear of the lot is steep ledge, but as the land nears the road it levels off into an area which could eventually provide space for picnic tables and additional parking, Mrs. Bartlett said.

The section of the lot actually located on the water is only 1/2-acre, but it has approximately 250 feet of frontage, most of that in sandy beach. It is already used as a beach by some local people.

Similar beach-purchase proposals in Greenwood and Woodstock have failed in the past, Mrs. Bartlett noted, but with local residents being driven off the lakes by skyrocketing real estate prices, public attitudes toward such purchases appear to be changing.

"People are beginning to realize that we had better do something soon or our lakes will be off-limits to our children and grandchildren," she said. "Everyone I've talked to is really excited about being able to buy this land. I just hope that everybody turns out for the meeting."

The selectmen have proposed that half the $40,000 purchase price be taken from the Interest Account and half from the Tree Growth Account. Such an arrangement would not require an increase in this year's tax rate.

Voters will also be asked to allocate $20,000 from the Tree Growth Account to finish converting the former Locke Mills School on Bird Hill Road into a municipal building.

Work on the entranceway, selectmen's room and town office space has already been completed. The $20,000 requested by the selectmen would be used to complete renovation of the multi-purpose room which will be used by the planning board, as well as for conferences and for voting.

Renovations to the former school building included a new heating system, septic system, new insulation, lowered ceilings, the installation of smaller, energy-efficient windows and interior refinishing.

The Greenwood town office staff moved into the municipal building this week, and Mrs. Bartlett said she hopes to be able to schedule an open house in the near future.

Voters at next Tuesday's special town meeting will also be asked to approve an ordinance regulating waste oil and used tires. (See separate article.)

The special town meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 7 p.m. in the town hall.

Mountain race Saturday

The Mahosue Arts Council will sponsor a Hike/Walk/Run mountain race Oct. 8 at Sunday River to benefit the council.

The race will follow Sunday River Ski Resort's "Three Mile Trail." The first 100 entrants will receive complimentary long-sleeved T-shirts. The top three male and female winners will pick from six special prizes, including a pair of Rossignol skis and a season pass at Sunday River Ski Touring Center. A company award will also be given to the winning company team, consisting of at least two participants—male and female.

Registration is $15 per person or $35 per family. To register, or for more information, call 824-2808. The race will be held in conjunction with Sunday River's Blue Mountains Arts Festival, which will feature arts and crafts, music, and good things to eat. The race is sponsored by Boise Cascade, Crispotts, Groan & McGum, Gould Academy, Comsat, and Sunday River Ski Resort.

The board approved a site plan for Gene and Ginger Kelly's on Main Street. The permit under the ordinance, because of use in the front building, burned last winter.

Brian Strickland presented a plan for change of use under Review Ordinance. The board is to take action because some comments had not been included in application.

specifically the grounds on which the permit is denied. The reasons given in the motion to deny were that there was a lack of control of the noise (from the bands) and an unresponsiveness (on the part of the owners) to complaints from neighbors.

Neighbors Bob and Linda Saunders, who live on Clark Street, across from the lounge, appeared at the public hearing and, as they have done in the past, complained about the noise and about the apparent unwillingness of the Thurstons to control the noise. Mr. Saunders said, "Noise remains a major problem. It's caused us many nights of lost sleep."

No request from us to reduce the noise has been honored," Mr. Saunders also pointed out that while the regulations for entertainment permits specify there shall be a uniformed constable hired when there are more than 50 people in the audience, he has not seen such a constable. Further, he noted, patrons and employees park too close to the corner of Clark and Main streets, creating a visual barrier for drivers attempting to get onto Main Street.

While the Saunders were the only neighbors present at the hearing, Town Manager Rodney Lynch said he had received a complaint from one other neighbor. The Thurstons did not attend the public hearing, saying they did not want yet another confrontation with the Saunders. Also, they added, they expected the permit renewal would pass easily. They showed up shortly after the negative vote, but the issue was already decided and Chairman Jodrey would not bring it up again.

Police Chief Eric Wright testified that the music seemed to him to be too loud, even if one liked that kind of music. Selectman Chairman Arlan Jodrey also expressed his displeasure with the management of the lounge: "This has gone on and on. We've tried to get Fuzzy to straighten up his act and he just seems to defy us. They've got to prove to us they can manage the place."

The Thurstons, for their part, said afterwards they felt they had done a good job in restoring what had been a neglected, old establishment. "After the time and expense we've gone to to rehabilitate [the property], we felt betrayed by the selectmen," the Thurstons felt especially betrayed because none of the selectmen had ever visited the lounge to see for themselves what the situation was.

The matter is not likely to rest, as the Thurstons have the right to take the issue to the Board of Appeals. "We are going to the Board of Appeals," Mr. Thurston said. "We think this is ridiculous, bogus and a personal vendetta. We've been subjected to what I think is personal harassment."

Greenwood beach

asking is well below what the lot would command on the open market. "They were very kind and generous to give the town this opportunity," Mrs. Bartlett said.

The lot in question straddles the Greenwood Road, just north of Wesley Road and Cummings Brook. Most of the lot (2.3 acres) lies on the inland side of the road. The rear of the lot is steep ledge, but as the land nears the road it levels off into an area which could eventually provide space for picnic tables and additional parking, Mrs. Bartlett said.

The section of the lot actually located on the water is only 1/4-acre, but it has approximately 250 feet of frontage, most of that in sandy beach. It is already used as a beach by some local people.

Similar beach-purchase proposals in Greenwood and Woodstock have failed in the past, Mrs. Bartlett noted, but with local residents being driven off the lakes by skyrocketing shoreland prices, public attitudes toward such purchases appear to be changing.

"People are beginning to realize that we had better do something soon or our lakes will be off-limits to our children and grandchildren," she said. "Everyone I've talked to is really excited about being able to buy this land. I just hope that everybody turns out for the meeting."

The selectmen have proposed that half the $40,000 purchase price be taken from the Interest Account and half from the Tree Growth Account. Such an arrangement would not require an increase in this year's tax rate.

Voters will also be asked to allocate $20,000 from the Tree Growth Account to finish converting the former Locke Mills School on Bird Hill Road into a municipal building.

Work on the entranceway, selectmen's room and town office space has already been completed. The $20,000 requested by the selectmen would be used to complete renovation to the multi-purpose room which will be used by the planning board, as well as for conferences and for voting.

Renovations to the former school building included a new heating system, septic system, new insulation, lowered ceilings, the installation of smaller, energy-efficient windows and interior refinishing.

The Greenwood town office staff moved into the municipal building this week, and Mrs. Bartlett said she hopes to be able to schedule an open house in the near future.

Voters at next Tuesday's special town meeting will also be asked to approve an ordinance regulating waste oil and used tires. (See separate article.)

The special town meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 11, at 7 p.m. in the town hall.

Mountain race Saturday

The Mahosuc Arts Council will sponsor a Hike/Walk/Run mountain race Oct. 8 at Sunday River to benefit the council. The race will follow Sunday River Ski Resort's "Three Mile Trail." The first 100 entrants will receive complimentary long-sleeved T-shirts. The top three male and female winners will pick from six special prizes, including a pair of Rossignol skis and a season pass at Sunday River Ski Touring Center. A company award will also be given to the winning company team, consisting of at least two participants—male and female.

Registration is $15 per person or $35 per family. To register, or for more information, call 824-2806. The race will be held in conjunction with Sunday River's Blue Mountain Arts Festival, which will feature arts and crafts, music, and good things to eat. The race is sponsored by Boise Cascade, Crispotts, Groan & McGinn, Gould Academy, Constat, and Sunday River Ski Resort.

Andover says 'No'

Opponents of the article objected to members of the planning board being appointed by the selectmen, rather than elected at large, and some claimed that they had not had time to read and understand the ordinance.

The three-page ordinance had been posted for 10 days in the village's three stores, and in the Andover and East Andover post offices, and copies had been available in the town office.

Nonetheless, some speakers said they felt this was insufficient, arguing that it should have been sent to voters' homes or published in the newspapers.

Former Planning Board Member Freeman Farrington and others also objected to selectmen appointing the three planning board members and two alternates.

The selectmen would only appoint their friends, he claimed, but Selectwoman Laura Hutchins pointed out that the town had a great deal of difficulty finding anyone even willing to take on the responsibilities of a planning board member. And Selectman William Maselli said it would be even more difficult to fill the board if potential members had to file an election.

Voters sided with the selectmen in passing the ordinance, and in establishing the position of code enforcement officer.

The C.E.O. ordinance passed more easily (44-12), despite Mr. Farrington's opposition: "I can't really see why we need to get that serious," he said. "It's bad enough that we have to get a building permit. We don't need all that high-mucky-muck stuff."

Voters also easily passed (46-7) an article authorizing $5,500 to be transferred from the Excise Account to the Fire Department Account.

Fire Chief Kenneth Dixon said the money was necessary to offset the cost of overhauling a pump that did not meet state standards.

with the clean-up bill if the project fails and the developer walks away from it.

The ordinance also sets up a returnable fee schedule to finance any technical evaluation services required by the town in evaluating the proposal.

In addition to the application requirements, the ordinance includes stipulations covering buffering, access, fire safety, air and water pollution, as well as ongoing monitoring and performance standards.

The operators would also be required to renew their operation permit annually. If the ordinance is approved at the special town meeting, it will become effective Sept. 20, 1988—the date it was signed by the selectmen. Mrs. Bartlett notes that such retroactivity has recently been upheld by Maine courts.

According to Mike Gordon, the brothers plan to make a formal application to DEP in the next couple of weeks. He said the ordinance being considered by Greenwood would have much stiffer regulations than the state regulations drawn up by DEP and might well be illegal. He said he and his brother and their engineer, Billy Stowell, would be at the Greenwood special town meeting and he hoped they would be given a chance to explain the project.

Mrs. Bartlett notes that such retroactivity has recently been upheld by Maine courts.

According to Mike Gordon, the brothers plan to make a formal application to DEP in the next couple of weeks. He said the ordinance being considered by Greenwood would have much stiffer regulations than the state regulations drawn up by DEP and might well be illegal. He said he and his brother and their engineer, Billy Stowell, would be at the Greenwood special town meeting and he hoped they would be given a chance to explain the project.

The operators would also be required to renew their operation permit annually. If the ordinance is approved at the special town meeting, it will become effective Sept. 20, 1988—the date it was signed by the selectmen. Mrs. Bartlett notes that such retroactivity has recently been upheld by Maine courts.

So. Woodstock

By OLIVE R. DAVIS

Esther Davis took supper with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Giddings last Thursday night. Esther also came to help me wash Friday. She resumed doing her kind work as soon as she arrived back from Florida.

Wednesday we were at Bridgton, where we called on Sylvia Andrews and Lillian Harmon, as both had birthdays coming right up. While there, Sharon Goldsmith dropped in to see us.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Brooks called several times. Lettie has helped me in many ways while I've been laid up. What good friends they are.

I want to thank Turner Grange members for the kind card and, also, the Retired Teachers Association. I was sorry to miss the meeting but had to give up. I am better now.

Helvi Tucci called on Olive Davis Friday afternoon.

Lettie Brooks took Gail Butterfield, Sheryl Foster, Velma Loughton and Olive Davis to Lecturer's Tea, held at the Grange home in Augusta, Sunday, Sept. 25. At 2 p.m. awards were passed out by State Lecturer James Owens.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Hathaway were at Windsor where they attended the Common Ground Fair from Friday until Sunday afternoon. They took their traveling home.

Mrs. David Hathaway is working part-time at Trap Corner Store and Bethel Inn.

Esther Davis and I were in Bethel and Norway Monday on business.

Some of the awards Olive Davis brought home from the Augusta Lecturer's Tea for Franklin Grange were Achievement Award for participating in Subordinate Lecturers Programs; Recognition Award for outstanding service as lecturer, for reporting to Grange Herald Monthly; and Grange Yearbook Award for outstanding achievement.

With the last one I had a white ribbon which was the third place on book. Lettie typed the programs for me so this is an honor to her, too.

Ann Marshall, who is running for state representative, and Mrs. Roland Lord called on people in the neighborhood Monday.

Donations sought for more trees on Main St.

The Bethel Board of Selectmen has accepted a low bid by George Hayes and Son for the spring 1989 planting of shade trees between the Casco Bank and the IGA Food Store.

The trees are a sterile compact variety of flowering pear that has been used successfully in confined sidewalk locations.

This purchase, approved by voters at Town Meeting, is the first step in a planting plan for Main Street recommended by the Bethel Shade Tree Committee.

To supplement appropriations for the tree planting program residents and businesses may make donations for individual trees in a specified planting zone ($25 per tree) or toward the general fund for planting on Main Street. Checks are payable to "Town of Bethel-Shade Tree Committee" and may be mailed to Town Office, P.O. Box 108, Bethel, 04217.

GRANT-ONOFRIO VOWS SAID

Sherry Lee Onofrio and Jeffrey Martin Grant were married June 25 at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Onofrio, of Norway. The bridegroom is the son of Albert Grant, of Mercer, and Dawn Burns, of Fairfield.

The matron of honor was Michelle Cobb Bridesmaids were Linda Liberty, Rebecca Dubois, Cathy Macomber and Halina Tukaszewicz.

The best man was Michael McLaughlin. Ushers were Albert Grant III, Greg Smith, Dana Leighton and Michael Heath.

The bride is a graduate of Oxford Hills High School and the University of Maine, Farmington. She is presently employed by Martin's Point Health Care Center in Farmington.

The bridegroom graduated from Lawrence High School and Sylvania Technical School of Boston, Mass. He is employed by Northern Data Systems of Farmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant are residing in Portland following a honeymoon trip to Aruba.

High Street West Paris

By VIVA WHITMAN

Another beautiful but cool morning; however, we didn't get any frost here so far but one never knows for how long. We are just glad it hasn't hit so far. Russell planted some polebeans that are for shellbeans and they have been late in blooming and filling with beans. Of course now they are loaded with beans but don't expect we will have much chance to harvest them as they probably won't get mature. We keep hoping the frost will hang off long enough for them to mature but can't really count on it for sure. We have been very lucky with our gardens this year so will be thankful for whatever they provide. Lots of others haven't been so lucky and for that we are sorry. We just seem to be more protected here and the frost has held off beautifully, so far.

Last Thursday, we had a good gathering at Peggy's for a songfest and good music. Charlotte Cole came with guitar and harmonica and brought Vera Dunham and Helen Chase with her. Laura Hutchins, of East Andover, came and brought Charlotte Sennett with her. Laura brought her Squeeze Box along to play. Russell and I went up to join the gang and, of course, Peggy's friend Eva was there with fiddle and bow. We had a good afternoon of music in whatever form we could have. Playing of instruments, singing and whatever one wanted to do. Lots of fun for all.

Friday morning, Eva Swanson, Peggy's friend, left for home and when Peggy got a letter from her, the day before yesterday, she said she had hardly left when she saw a mouse and had to stop for him. Said it was a young bull mouse and crossed the road and then back again. She and Peggy had seen one down by the Paris Manufacturing Co. a day or so before and it was a young bull. They can sure be a sight to see but don't really want to meet one when on a walk up the road.

Saturday Russell brought in a pail full of broccoli for us to freeze. We put up 10 packages of it and more to come. Peggy and Russell went to Locke Mills in the evening to go to the dance. I wasn't up to going so stayed home.

Sunday, Peggy and Russell planned to go to Bethel to visit Loreta in the afternoon, so Michael and Kariann came for me in the forenoon and took me home for overnight and the croquet class on Monday. The girls and I took a walk in the afternoon after a nice roasted chicken dinner.

Monday, after class, Wynona brought me home and we stopped at Market Square Restaurant for lunch. Very good food there and we had plenty for all of us. Kariann was along as no Nursery School for her that day. When we got to the house here we found Barbara Honkala and Evelyn Tamminen just getting ready to leave as they had tried the doors and found no one at home. Russell was up with Peggy and they hadn't seen the ladies drive in or heard them. I was so glad we were in time to have them stop and visit with us. I hadn't seen Evelyn for so many years; it was wonderful to see her again and visit. Hope they find time to stop in again some day.

Tuesday was such a grand day we decided to make the most of it. I had said I would like to ride up through the mountains to see the foliage and Peggy thought it would be a good day for it, so we packed our lunch and away we went at 8 a.m. Got to Bethel and Peggy filled the car up with gas, had the oil checked and we were off. Went up through to Gorham and then took Route 16 down through Punksburg Notch. We then traveled up through Crawford Notch after stopping for a little to view Mount Washington when we stopped there in the morning.

It was so clear and beautiful. Saw a lot of others who must have had the same idea as we did. Crawford Notch was a beautiful sight and we stopped at the gift shop by the pond. Watched folks feeding the trout there and saw the trout jumping out of the water to get the food. All looked well fed and probably were. We went through Franconia Notch also and visited the cog railway and the Old Man of the Mountain. Roads have been changed so much through that area that it is very different than it used to be. Stopped at Clark's Trading Post but no bear show till much later in the day, so went on. Toured the Kancamagus Highway and then to Fryeburg and home. Bridgton has its streets all torn up and what a mess. It is a constant battle to get through the Main Street. However, should be better when finished. Guess that is all one can hope for at this point.

Went to see Dr. Jealous on Wednesday and with it being so chilly, Russell started taking things up in the garden. He cut the squash and brought in tomatoes for me to lay out to ripen. Peggy plans to use the rest of the cukes for pickles as Russell gave her a head of cauliflower to use with them. Had a bag of small tomatoes for Wendall which he came and got. Hope he comes for more when he can. Cauliflower and broccoli will last a long time yet as long as it doesn't freeze. They like the cool weather and still a number of them to head as yet. The leaves haven't turned as much in Maine as in New Hampshire but even there, the colors are not as bright as usual. Some places look dry instead of just having the leaves change color. The rivers are so low it is terrible. We did enjoy our ride on Tuesday and couldn't have picked a better day. It was interesting to see the cog railway and watch the trains go up the mountainside. I had never been up there before to see it. We didn't go up on it as it was so busy and we didn't want to take the time but interesting to watch.

Hope lots of folks will be at West Paris Grange for the dance and don't forget the flea and food sale on Oct. 15 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Hope everyone has had a good week and will have another this coming week. Take care one and all.

CARD OF THANKS

Once again I wish to give heartfelt thanks to my children and my friends for cards, visits, flowers and the good care given my dear little Peter; also to all who said prayers for me and who gave me encouragement when I was pretty low. You have no idea how much it all meant. I remember you all in my prayers. Thanks again and may God bless.

We have been having some beautiful weather during the days, but the nights have been nippy although we haven't had a frost yet. I am still getting corn, cukes, tomatoes and pole beans. Suspect a lot of people are getting ready for the Fryeburg Fair. I really used to enjoy putting our vegetables into the fair and seeing how one could arrange them to make the most artistic showing. Each year we would plant different varieties so we could have a larger selection to choose from. Actually, on a lot of veggies and fruits the size didn't make as many points as color and shape. Really enjoyed it.

George and Betty Gilbert and friends, Raymond and Marge Coleman, of Mechanic Falls, left with their campers, Sept. 19-23, to Cupsupic, camping and fishing. It was in Adamstown near Moosehead Lake.

Sept. 17, Frank and Sid Murphy went to Scot Newton's and Laurelle in Berlin, N.H.

Sept. 24, Frank and Sid Murphy went to Gorham, N.H. to a housewarming for Frank and Elaine Bajowski.

Sarah Coolidge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Coolidge, spent Friday night with her friend, Jennifer Mason, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chuckie Mason.

Dan Hannon and daughter Mary Beth went on an outdoor skills and leadership course (part of a special science course) at Outward Bound for two days.

Alden and Barbara MacDougall went on a foliage trip to Rangeley going through Errol, N.H., Sept. 23.

The McCoy's have had a barn rebuilt where the barn that was struck by lightning last summer burned.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Angevine went to Shelburne, Vt., to the Shelburne Museum. They left Sept. 21 and came back Friday. Spent Wednesday night in Shelburne, Vt., and Thursday night in Newport, Vt. Friday stopped on their way home in Colebrook, N.H. to visit his uncle and wife, Johnny and Connie Angevine.

Horner and Eddie Smith went to Goldstreet Restaurant and Lounge, Sept. 24, for the wedding and reception of Willie Gaudreau and Penny York.

Monday, Sept. 26, Louise Loring and I went to Berlin, N.H. to do some shopping.

If you want to be happy/Begin where you are.

Don't wait for some rapture/That's future and far.

Begin to be joyous, begin to be glad/And soon you'll forget/That you ever were sad.

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the monthly meeting will be Thursday, Oct. 6, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. As this is the annual "What's It?" those attending are requested to bring an item from the past of an unusual nature for identification and discussion.

Following this portion of the meeting, Barbara Herrick Brown will make a presentation on the history of Bethel's Clark Street. Anyone with memories, photographs or artifacts relating to the street is urged to bring them to the meeting. All those interested are cordially invited to attend.

Homecoming weekend was held Oct. 1-2 at the Dr. Moses Mason House. The museum was decorated with harvest items from Barbara Herrick Brown, Gertrude Hutchins, Allan Howe, Helen Morton and Sudie Vachon. On Sunday afternoon Society Director Stanley R. Howe made a presentation on the history of Gould Academy. Guides during the weekend included Millie Thomas, Helen Morton and Persis Post. Much appreciation is expressed to all those who provided harvest items and to the guides for their assistance in making the weekend a success.

New members of the Bethel Historical Society are Ernest and Beverly Cassara of Fairfax, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dean, of Charlottesville, Va., spent this week with her grandmother, Mrs. Elmira Doyen. Hugh and Marjorie Awalt, of Augusta, were visitors Monday afternoon and evening; also Mrs. Connie Hindman.

Lee Hindman, Barbara and son, of Windsor, spent Saturday afternoon there.

Mr. and Mrs. David Salway entertained Sunday for dinner Mrs. Gladys Grenier, of Bethel, and Mrs. Evelyn Kimball and myself in honor of Evelyn's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Swan, of Rumford, drove me to Portland Jetport Thursday morning to meet my daughter, Mrs. Sylvia Swan and little son, Christopher, of Chugiak, Alaska, who are spending two weeks visiting relatives and friends here. Sylvia also attended her 20th class reunion and other weekend activities at Gould Academy.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Burgess, of Greene, were Sunday callers of Mrs. Christine Kimball, Mrs. Deanna Andrews, of Auburn, was a Saturday afternoon visitor of her mother.

Thursday evening, Mrs. Christine Kimball, among others, attended the Albany Church Circle meeting at the church.

Friday, Christine went to Norway to meet her cousin, Mrs. Mariane Reed, of Yarmouth, and cousin Hazel, of Massachusetts. They enjoyed luncheon and shopping together.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kallis recently enjoyed four days at the New England Conference, in Brattleboro, Vt. They returned home through the White Mountains, where the fall foliage was at its peak.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kallis and son, of Hingham, Mass., are spending this weekend with his parents.

Students and staff are looking forward to the upcoming long weekend, Friday, Oct. 7, is a staff development workshop day for teachers. Monday, Oct. 10, is the celebration of Columbus Day. Let's hope the weather and the appreciation of the fall foliage add to the enjoyment of the weekend.

The 1st-graders have added another apple activity this week. They have made applesauce.

The 2nd-graders enjoyed the visit from the grandparent guests of their student-of-the-week, Eric Smith. Mary and Warren Emery brought the ambulance to school. Each student sat in it, tried out the stethoscope and blood pressure equipment and learned about the ambulance first-hand. Thank-you notes have been written to these very special guests. The current student-of-the-week is Edwin Van Bibber Orr. It is his turn to be in the spotlight.

The 3rd-graders are working around the theme of Rumpelstiltskin this week. They are also hard at work learning all there is to know about subtraction!

The 4th-graders are beginning lessons on the stringed instruments. The demonstration meeting was this past week.

The 5th-graders are working on their penpal letters. Correspondence is being exchanged with Mrs. Alice Deegan's 5th-graders at the Guy E. Rowe School in Norway. Grades 4, 5 and 6 are also collecting book orders this week.

Grade 6 is welcoming a new student, Shelly Grubb. Shelly joined us just in time to take part in our candy bar and mug sale. If the first two days are any indication, we are going to have a super sale. The 6th-graders are currently leading in the amount of sales, but all classes are participating fully.

Mrs. Ginger Dunham spoke to the 2nd and 3rd grades on Wednesday about school banking. Wednesday is going to be banking day and children in Grades 2-6 can bring in their banking any Wednesday from now until June.

On Thursday night we welcomed some new parents to our volunteer group. Many who could not attend are letting us know what they can do for us. Mrs. Michelle Blake will be the parent contact person this year.

THE LOCKE MILLS SCHOOLHOUSE, CIRCA 1908—The original one-room school building on Bird Hill Road was built in 1890 to accommodate Locke Mills pupils in Grades 1-8. In 1913 a second room was added, and 20 years later a third and final classroom was added. That final addition now houses the Greenwood Town Office, while the earlier rooms will be used by the town's selectmen and planning board, and for conferences and voting.

MOVING DAY—Denise Swan, assistant town clerk of Greenwood, has piles of boxes to sort through as she prepares for the reopening of the town offices tomorrow (Thursday) in the former Locke Mills School on Bird Hill Road. The renovated classroom which will house the town office space are bright and spacious—a far cry from the cramped quarters in the town hall building.

West Bethel

By CONSTANCE BROADBENT

Dear Margaret:
Greetings from West Bethel just a few days past your birthday. Hope you had a happy day. I was thinking of you as I read a recent ad for a Latin teacher in this part of the world. Perhaps you could leave the "Big Apple" behind one day and find happiness in the country.

"I'll tell you, there is certainly lots to do and much to enjoy as a country mouse. There are committees to serve, courses to take, hills to climb, ponds to fish and people to see."

Last week the Literacy Task Force gathered at Telstar—the regional high school located in Bethel—to discuss its objectives for the coming year. Shirley Hodson and I represented West Bethel as the group focused on recruitment of students and training of tutors to serve their needs. It's really frustrating to know that in each community in this country there are people who would like to share their reading skills and people who could benefit from the sharing and that they may never meet. How do we convince people that the process is painless, the results are rewarding and the product is profit? How do we introduce poor readers to good readers in an effort to wipe out illiteracy? That's our challenge, I guess.

In the spirit of challenge, we took another mountain hike this week. Our friends Len and Phyllis Kaplan, of Millis, Mass., were up for a few days of R and

R. Bethel style. We took the "road less traveled" as we followed our guide along the blue trail as opposed to the well-worn orange trail. Blue or orange ribbons tied to branches. We plodded through the pucker brush, scaled a few steep rocky outcrops and emerged at the treeline trembling, but exhilarated. As we approached the summit, we had to keep stopping to take in the wonders that surrounded us. The sky was crystal blue. The slopes were covered with blueberries, bushes dressed in their autumn reds. The view of fall from above was breathtaking! A riot of color spread out before us, on other hills and mountainsides like a giant patchwork quilt. As we watched, spellbound, Lenny exclaimed, "It looks like masses of broccoli florets dyed for the occasion!" And that's just what we saw.

Speaking of occasions. There were hosts of Gould Academy (Bethel) private high school graduates in town this past weekend, gathered for the annual Gould Alumnae festivities. Numbers among them were 10 sons and daughter of Harriet and George Stowell, all of whom had graduated from Gould between 1955 and 1988. They represent probably the largest contingent of Gould grads from a single family. Michael, Lovettville, Va., Rosemary, of Woburn, Mass., and Andrew, of Jackson, Maine, in with their parents, while Jonathan, stayed at the home of his in-laws, Rut and Arthur Gilbert. Rowena Gilbert Stowell is also a Gould alumna. Ar daughter Melaine carries Gould traditions.

Rowena Gilbert Stowell is also a Gould alumna. And daughter Melaine carries Gould tradition into yet another generation as a freshman this year.

West Bethel was the gathering place for lots of folks recently. Arthur and Sheila Head and daughter, Marietta, were hosts to Brent Handley, who came for a weekend visit. Brent makes his home in Warren when not studying at the University of Maine campus quarters in Gorham.

And Round Pond was the gracious host to at least two fishermen the other day. Alfred Merrill and friend Donald Debon hiked in one sunny morning from Crocker Pond to Round Pond in quest of that "just once more before it freezes" experience. That one mile hike is the great equalizer, I guess, and Alfred, at 80-plus, has made the trek many, many times. I figure that anyone willing to walk that far to find water for casting deserves to catch a fish or two. And catch fish they did. The pond is a few trout short, but two happy anglers emerged with smiles and supper! They look forward now to a winter of fish stories to carry them to spring and a new batch of worms.

It's busy time as usual here. A grange supper to cook for, holiday fairs to prepare for—wait till you see the quilt that's in the making for the Union Church fair. Pink and green and blue gingham worked into an intricate tree pattern! (apple, I think). Nancy Grover and Jeanne Kimball are assembling it; they're looking for more clever hands to assist with the quilting. The finished product will be raffled off in conjunction with

50 show up for volleyball

The SAD #44 Adult Coed Volleyball League met for the first games of the 1988-89 season on Sept. 29 at the Telstar High School gym.

There are 50 players in the league so far, on five teams. Five games were played at the opening session, with Ernie's Team leading at the end of the evening with four wins and no losses. They were followed by the Hart Team, with three wins, Outward Bound with two and Bryant Pond with one. The Barnes Team was winless.

A schedule based on six teams will be developed before the next session, Oct. 5, as an additional team from the Hanover-East Bethel area is expected to be formed by then.

Anyone who would like to join a team, or any additional team wishing to be included in the schedule, should call the Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780. New teams must register with the office by Tuesday, Oct. 4.

Teams to date are: Ernie's Team: Ernie Waterhouse (captain), Rick and Ellen Whitney, Ray and Rhonda Baker, Clyde Crockett, Brad Wight, Gary Wight, Malcolm Bennett, Susan Parker and Marie Cole; Bryant Pond Team: Scott Dennis (captain), Sandy Dennis, Rick and Missy Young, Tom and Debbie Barton, Charlie Reiss, Jen Brown, Steve Newkirk and Ken Cole; Outward Bound Team: Elaine Suddeth (captain), Terry Brady, Ellen Isaacson, Dan Lowell, Joe Vedella and Paul Marcolini; Hart's Team: Barbara Hart (captain), Debby Wheeler, Mike Hart, Perry Hart, Chris Hanscom, Becky Bean, Robert Baker, Terry Merrill and Chris Robb; the Barnes Team: Chris Barnes (captain), Fred Johnson, Wendy Meader, Brian St. Anna and Christy Day; the Hanover Team: Barbara Gross, Bente Parent, Joellen Blanchard, plus others to be recruited.

The League will play for six weeks, with results compiled for final standings. Playoffs will be held at the end of the season. Spectators are welcome during play, 7-9 p.m., each Wednesday.

Elderhostelers visit for fall foliage season

Fall Elderhostel season is in full swing at Sunday River Inn. Two sessions were held during the month of September and two more are scheduled during October. Eight skiing-oriented Elderhostel programs are planned for the winter months, beginning with a downhill skiing program the week following Thanksgiving.

Local instructors for the fall courses have included Mary Isham (precious fibers), Ed Hitchcock (music of the '30s and '40s), Robyn Fraser (stained glass), Al Barth (geology), and Sue Wight and Susie Bowie (foliage art forms). Still to come are courses by Mike Murphy (wood carving), Sue Laban (sheep raising and spinning), and Tim Sawyer (forest practices).

During the foliage season the Elderhostel participants enjoy field trips to Grafton Notch, mineral mines, the Moses Mason House, and local homes and farms as part of their studies. The Hostellers come from all over the U.S. and parts of Canada and are fascinated with the interests and lifestyles of the people they meet while visiting in this area.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Elderhostel opportunities that are offered at over 1,000 locations worldwide can review the latest catalog at the Bethel Library, or write to Elderhostel, 80 Boylston St., Suite 400, Boston, Mass. 02116. Elderhostel invites anyone 60 or over to join the fun of learning together.

By ARLINE BERNIER

Bird season opened with a big bang. I hope my little family nearby, that are so much fun watching from the hatch on through the summer, escaped.

Walter and Felicia Griffin recently visited his sister, Margaret Mitchell.

The Ray Berniers have been visited by her father and Mrs. Arata and her brother and family of the Augusta area and his sister, Doris, and Mr. Fontaine, of Saco. They've also been visited by two moose which pass by the house into the woods one night and return the next night. After a few days of seeing only tracks, a bull moose strutted around in full daylight long enough for some picture-taking.

The coyotes are singing in the hills nearly every evening.

The leaves are covering the roads and ditches now. The colored season is all too brief.

Greg Gouin, Michael Davis and Nora Davis. Courtney was honored with a dozen yellow roses, given by her grandmother.

Local record company releases 'concept' album

Bethel's independent record label, The Tourmaline Music Group, this week announced the release of a new album, "Sky Frontier." It features Conni St. Pierre on vocals and bass, Ted St. Pierre on guitar, and Bill Harper on drums.

A guest performance by Aerosmith's Joe Perry on lead guitar and drums by Michael Dawe, whose credits include work with Robert Palmer and Roxy Music, are included on the album in addition to backing vocals by local songwriter Thea Dunn and drum sampling and processing by Ray Fernandes, formerly of The Atlantics.

"Sky Frontier" is a concept album, a study in contrasts, comprised of 10 original and diverse songs in styles that range from artistic and experimental to hard rock and ballads. It is poetic and intellectual, but also compelling and emotional—and it is danceable rock and roll.

The album cover is a striking watercolor portrait by Tina Lammie, who is also a vocalist and musician.

The recording was produced and engineered by Ted St. Pierre at The

TREE COURSES OFFERED

Tree identification and timber stand improvement are the titles of two, one-night programs to be offered by SAD #44 Adult and Community Education on Thursday, Oct. 13 and Oct. 27, respectively. Merle Ring, of the Maine Forest Service, will present the programs, which will be held at Telstar High School, 7-9 p.m.

He will cover such topics as identifying summer species using bark and leaf characteristics and winter bud identification, as well as tree planting, pruning and weeding. To enroll in either or both of the programs call the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780.

Outlook and will be available locally or by mail. The band is already receiving airplay on college radio stations from Maine to Washington State and has scheduled a concert performance at Gould Academy for Feb. 9, 1989.

Locally, the new Sky Frontier cassette album can be heard on WMWV-FM, 93.5, from Conway, N.H. Or, you can request it.

By MYRA FOSTER

Mr. and Mrs. David Dalke and Heather, of Marlboro, Mass., visited Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hastings all last week. Mrs. Stephen Woytysuk, of Portland, visited Mr. and Mrs. Almon O'Leary and Mr. and Mrs. Erion Bean Sunday, Sept. 25.

Mrs. Bruce Tuominen and Mrs. Paul Kimball visited Mr. and Mrs. Frank Piper, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Boyd in Mechanic Falls, Sept. 25.

Mr. John Foster, of Andover, visited me Monday of last week. Mrs. Clara Hamlin, of South Waterford, picked me up Sept. 28 and we went to visit Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stearns at a camp on Azulesco Lake for the rest of the week.

People must be getting ready for the fall and winter because there doesn't seem to be many visiting now. Should be some later when the leaves are at their brightest. Ours around here don't seem to be as bright as usual. Did the early frost blight their coloring?

David Foster, of Andover, called on me one day after school last week.

NEWS FROM

Andover Elementary School

The ants finally arrived in 2nd-grade. They are working really hard building tunnels, making a dump, etc. If you get a chance to come see them, please do. The 2nd-graders will be doing some special projects and research to go along with the Ant Farm—they are really excited about it.

On Tuesday, the 3rd-graders went to the woods by the bog for a science project. We saw all kinds of insects, snakes, tree frogs, animal homes and plants. We were looking for decayed logs. We are learning how things interact with each other. We are learning how soil is formed. Mrs. Thurston and Mrs. Robinson went with us. Mrs. Robinson shared her knowledge of the woods with us. We had a great time.

Grade 4 has just completed their first book. The book is an activity we incorporated with our English lesson on compound words. We've named our book "Compound Creations." Students will be taking this book home to share with their family and ask for comments. Look for it to come to your house soon. Our next book will include selections from the students' journals or creative writing folder. These will be typed and illustrated. We will be working on more books as the year progresses.

The 6th-grade students have started taking notes in social studies this week. A necessary skill for middle school and high school.

us on Wednesday and talked with each class about Raptor Ecology. He brought along live specimens of owls and hawks to assist him. The children were totally absorbed in this presentation.

The 6th-grade students and some Woodstock staff visited Mt. Blue State Park for a camping trip on Thursday and Friday. The purpose of this trip was to develop teamwork and leadership skills among the group.

These things of course are all in addition to the many exciting activities happening in each of our classrooms.

Oct. 5 will be the first of SAD #4's Professional Development Days for all elementary schools. School will be dismissed at 11:50 a.m. Lunch will be served to all Grade 1-6 students. These Wednesdays are scheduled to continue through the month of May.

In an effort to ease any child care problems that may exist, a Wednesday afternoon activities program has been set up by SAD #4 at the Bryant Pond Baptist Church, under the care of Mrs. Pam House and Mrs. Linda Curley. Both ladies are school-board-accepted substitute teachers. A letter explaining the program in detail was sent home with each child last week. This program is designed only for use by those parents unable to find appropriate child care for these days and is not designed to take the place of other child care arrangements that have already been made.

Soup labels needed. Mrs. Greeke and Mrs. McGuire will coordinate the Soup Label Drive this year. It promises to be a fun drive with prizes for the classroom that turns in the most labels during a two-week collection period. Save those labels now! The first classroom prize will be awarded on Oct. 21. Bring all labels to the collection box outside Mrs. Greeke's room. Be sure you put them in your classroom box.

Classroom activities. Friday, the Kindergarten took the day to learn all about bus safety. We rode the bus, learned how to cross the road safely.

Jack Frost Shops sold

William Tinkham recently became the sole owner of the Jack Frost Shops, in Maine and New Hampshire. The chain was started some 40 years ago by Freeman and Margaret Frost and has expanded from a single shop to a half-dozen. Aside from the main store in Jackson Village, N.H., there are seasonal shops at Mt. Abram, Sunday River (2 locations), Black Mt., Wildcat, and the Jackson X-C shop.

Mr. Tinkham began his career with the company 10 years ago when the business was bought by Lee Harmon. Mr. Tinkham's position was as manager of the Jack Frost Shop at Sunday River. He took over as general manager of the company seven years ago.

Over 500 enroll in Adult Education courses

Adult and Community Education in SAD #4 is off to a banner start, according to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell. Over 500 enrollments have been recorded to date at the office, with additional registrations expected throughout the fall as interest builds for classes and programs beginning in October and November.

Many classes, especially Introduction to Computers, Machine Quilting, Bird-carving, Welding, Woodworking, Tassetry and Stained Glass, filled up early. There is renewed interest in literacy, GED Preparation and Adult High School diploma classes, with three students being tutored in reading, five in basic math, 15 currently involved in GED preparation and 12 pursuing their diplomas.

The special effort to contact former Tinkham students who did not finish their programs of study is continuing and new students are expected to be added to the literacy, GED and diploma enrollments throughout the year.

The State of Maine will soon be announcing a target goal for GED and adult diploma completions for 1988-89 and SAD #4 intends to improve its graduation figures for adults by at least 20 percent over last year to help that effort. SAD #4 is the only program in Maine that does not charge for GED testing, although all programs throughout the state do offer instruction at no charge.

Sen. Mitchell says...

Despite almost 20 years of progress in protecting the environment, we see repeated reminders that the job is far from done. Our air has high levels of ozone. Acid rain still threatens our lakes. And our marine waters are under increasing pollution pressure.

It has been some comfort that environmental problems stopped at the doorway and, once indoors, we were secure from pollution and related health threats. Unfortunately, the latest findings about the health threats posed by radon gas should cause us to question this assumption.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) last week called radon a "national health problem" and has recommended that virtually every home in the nation be tested for radon. The new call for action is based on recent EPA studies of the extent of radon contamination of homes and other buildings.

The bad news about radon is that it is a deadly substance and that a great many homes throughout the country have dangerously high radon levels.

The good news about radon is that it can be identified relatively easily and that methods to reduce radon are available and can often be implemented by homeowners at modest cost.

The EPA has estimated that radon causes as many as 20,000 lung cancer deaths each year and is the second leading cause of lung cancer after smoking. The studies released by the EPA recently indicate that as many as one in three homes in 17 states studied may have unsafe levels of radon.

The highest levels of radon were found in North Dakota, where 63 percent of homes had unsafe levels of radon. In Minnesota, 46 percent of homes are considered unsafe, while 37 percent of homes in Pennsylvania and 27 percent of homes in Massachusetts have unsafe radon levels.

Radon is also a problem here in Maine. The Maine State Department of Human Services indicates that about 37 percent of homes tested to date report unsafe radon levels. The state will work with EPA this winter to develop a more accurate estimate.

Radon is a serious problem, but it is also a solvable problem. Radon test devices are available from several firms at the state and national level. Reducing radon is often a simple matter of sealing the foundation and improving ventilation in parts of the building.

While the homeowner is the first line of defense against radon, federal and state governments must take an active role in research, assessment, and public education about radon. I have sponsored legislation, titled the Radon Program Development Act, which will expand the federal radon program and support development of state programs.

This legislation is based in part on comments and suggestions from witnesses at a hearing I held on the radon problem, in August in the summer of 1985. The legislation has been passed by the Senate and is expected to be considered in the House of Representatives shortly.

Information about radon is available by calling the Department of Human Services, at 289-3826.

EPA publications on radon can be obtained by writing or calling EPA's regional office in Boston, at the JFK Federal Building, Room 2203, Boston, Mass. 02203, phone 617-565-3424.

Bethel to auction lots

The Town of Bethel will auction off the remaining four lots at the airport industrial park. The selection made the decision Monday night after a closed-door session on how to dispose of the lots, whether through negotiated sales or through auction.

The selection had been holding closed-door sessions on the matter for the past two months. They did not announce a date for the auction.

The four lots remaining at the airport industrial park are approximately 2 acres each. The only lots ever sold at the airport were two sold to GAMM II last year, at a combined price of $26,000.

Proceeds from the sale of the lots would go to the further development of the airport.

Vandals active along the Sunday River Road

The Sunday River valley received its first taste of graffiti last week when words were spray-painted on signs, rocks, and a fence along the road from Rte. 2 to Ketchikan.

Local residents were very upset by the abuse of the natural beauty of the area and the willful disregard for property.

The staff of Hurricane Island Outward Bound School has offered to help remove the mess by repainting the Ketchikan Cemetery fence. Other help is needed to remove the rest of the unsightly paintings. Anyone willing to help should contact the Newry town office.

This legislation is based in part on comments and suggestions from witnesses at a hearing I held on the radon problem, in August in the summer of 1985. The legislation has been passed by the Senate and is expected to be considered in the House of Representatives shortly.

Information about radon is available by calling the Department of Human Services, at 289-3826.

EPA publications on radon can be obtained by writing or calling EPA's regional office in Boston, at the JFK Federal Building, Room 2203, Boston, Mass. 02203, phone 617-565-3424.

THE FALL FOLIAGE FLOTILLA had a perfect day for their paddle down the Androscoggin River Saturday. A total of 20 craft took part in the excursion, sponsored by the Friends of the Androscoggin, a group dedicated to promoting recreational use of the waterway. Put-in (above) was at the Pleasant River Bridge, in West Bethel; take-out was at the state picnic area near the junction of Rte. 2 and the Sunday River Road. (Photo by Jayana Bowdoin)

GOSPEL SINGER AT CHURCH

New England gospel singer and recording artist Ken Fernald will appear in concert at the Pleasant Valley Bible Church on Sunday, Oct. 9, at 6 p.m.

Mr. Fernald has traveled throughout New England bringing the gospel message in song to Christians and non-Christians alike. He feels his ministry is one of witnessing of God's life-changing power and of God's love. The message in song is done with many familiar hymns, as well as some of the newer gospel songs.

Mr. Fernald has hosted a weekly television program called "Born again New England" and has hosted a Sunday morning talk and music program on radio called "The Lord is on your side." Mr. Fernald also has outreach programs to singles, teens and to several prisons. This music ministry is a full time interdenominational outreach.

Dr. Kenneth P. Weldon invites everyone to this musical event and to meet Ken Fernald.

DIABETES TEST AVAILABLE

The Health Education Department at Stephens Memorial Hospital is pleased to announce a diabetes screening, to be held Oct. 13, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., in the Board Room of the hospital.

The screening will be done on a walk-in basis by the fingerstick method. Results are available in one minute and include counseling by registered nurses. This is a random blood glucose test, therefore fasting is not necessary.

Diabetes screening is recommended for persons who have a family history of diabetes, are overweight or have experienced any of the following symptoms: excessive thirst, frequent urination, extreme fatigue, unexplained weight loss, blurry vision, slow healing of cuts and bruises or numbness in the legs or feet.

The fee for this service is $2 per person, payable at the time of the screening. For more information, call the Health Education Department during the hours of 8-4:30, Monday through Friday, at 743-5933, Ext. 471.

SMITH COMPLETES TRAINING

Army Reserve Private Karl S. Smith, son of Patricia J.M. Coyman, of Andover, and Stewart I. Smith, of Northborough, Mass., has completed training at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Georgia.

During the course, students received training that qualified them as light-arms infantrymen and as indirect-fire crewmen in a rifle or mortar squad. Instruction included weapons qualifications, tactics, patrolling, land mine warfare, field communications and combat operations.

He is a 1988 graduate of Telstar High School.

SNOW TWISTERS TO MEET

The Bethel Snow Twisters will hold their first meeting of the season, Tuesday, Oct. 11, 7 p.m., at the Casco Bank Community Room. All are welcome to join and support the club. For membership cards contact Robert L. Lowell or Lola Crockett.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words, comfort and help for your daily life.

The afternoon was cloudy as I descended through Grafton Notch. Then suddenly it brightened as maples glowed with vivid reds and yellows. The changing of the leaves has begun. One of the major reasons New England is my favorite place is due to the changing of the seasons.

One of life's greatest blessings is the possibility of change. In nature from green to brilliant oranges, reds and yellows, or from a drab cocoon to a beautiful butterfly.

One of the greatest changes possible is spoken of in the Bible. The Apostle Paul, writing to the Christians in Ephesus, speaks to them of the great changes that have taken place in their lives. Once they had lived strictly for themselves and had indulged in an evil manner of sinful practices, but now they are growing, loving people, experiencing joy, peace and hope.

Yes, as the leaves change, it is possible for people to change. We can change by giving our lives back to God and receiving the forgiveness that is ours in Christ. Let's turn back to the Bible as individuals and as a nation. Let's allow God to change our lives.

"Therefore if any person be in Christ, he is a new creation; old things are passed away; behold, all things have become new." II Cor. 5:17.

He is survived by two sons, Robert Moulton of Kittery Pt., and Mark Moulton of Kittery; three daughters, Patricia Mabey of York, Judith Davis of York, and Elaine Morrison of Charleston, S.C.; three brothers, Harry Moulton of Kittery, Nelson Moulton Jr. of Kittery, and Joseph Moulton of Kittery; four sisters, Charlotte Reinfuss of Largo, Fla., Virginia Roy of Dover, N.H., Mildred Miller of So. Portland, and Arlene Radford of Huntsville, Ala.; eight grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

Graveside services will be held this Friday, Oct. 7, at 2 p.m., at the Orchard Grove Cemetery, in Kittery. Please omit flowers. Contributions may be made to the Stephens Memorial Hospital, Norway 04268. Arrangements by Wilson-Cooper Funeral Home, Kittery.

Federal government provides funding for health, sanitation projects

The Maine Congressional Delegation last week announced federal grants, loans and contracts from the federal government during the month of August.

Among them were the following: The Environmental Protection Agency provided $829,810 to the town of Machias for the design of a sewer rehabilitation project and $773,063 to the town of Brownville for the design and construction of a sewer system.

The Department of Agriculture loaned $1,160,000 from the Farmers Home Administration to the Mid-Maine Solid Waste Association in Dexter for the construction of a solid waste disposal system, and $450,000 from the Farmers Home Administration to the Piscataquis Regional YMCA in Dover-Foxcroft for construction of new facilities. The Town of Bethel is applying for a loan of nearly $500,000 from the FmHA to fund necessary repairs to the municipal sewer system. In July the town received a grant of $500,000 from the FAA to pay for paving of the new runway at Col. Dye Field.

The Department of Commerce gave $631,600 from the Economic Development Administration to the town of Mechanic Falls for the expansion of its water system.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development gave $156,620 to the Rumford Group Home for the rehabilitation of a barn into family apartments.

In a non-monetary matter, the National Park Service has entered the Norway Historic District in the National Register of Historic Places.

Citizen circulation up another 8 percent

The publisher of The Citizen reported last week that the paper's circulation climbed 8 percent during the past 12 months. The report was based on figures gathered for the annual statement required by the U.S. Postal Service.

Total paid circulation as of the end of September was 3,178, or an 8 percent increase over a year ago. Paid circulation has increased 57 percent since September 1984, publisher Bernard Wideman reported.

Of The Citizen's total paid circulation, 1,828 papers are sent through the mail, while 1,350 are sold through dealers, according to the postal statement. A reproduction of the statement will appear in next week's paper, as required by law.

500 Gould alumni return for annual get-together

Two coaches who made memorable impressions on their students and a popular 1967 graduate killed in an accident in 1967 were honored during Alumni Weekend in what a number of alumni described as "stirring dedications." Over 500 alumni returned to the campus as annual alumni association awards were given, and 22 members of the Class of 1938 received 50-year diplomas.

In the dedications of playing fields to the late-George Bowhay and Ordeil ("Coach") Anderson, Headmaster William Clough also honored the contributions of the fields' planners, designers and builders, including: Gould maintenance director Maynard Morgan '64, engineering advisor Billy Stowell '62, donor of many yards of fill Dick Douglass '51, P.H. Chadbourne Co. consultant Tim Sawyer, and machinery operator Denny Wilson. Immediately following the dedication, the Gould and Hyde School girls' soccer teams ran out onto the fields for the weekend's first game.

Friends, family, classmates and teachers of Elise Hatch were present at the morning dedication Saturday of the Hatch Memorial Garden on the west side of Holden Hall, commemorating Elise's contributions to school life, and offering future students a place for conversation, study, or thought. Warm weather and a still-blooming garden provided the backdrop for a warm ceremony.

Michael S. Stowell '58 was the recipient of the first annual Michael S. Stowell volunteer award, given to the alumnus who truly exemplifies the volunteer spirit, in Stowell's case by 11 years of service as class agent, annual giving chairman, and trustee.

Other important awards included Alumnus of the Year: Alan Ordway '58, and Faculty Award: former industrial arts teacher Clifford "Joe" Hillier.

Also honored for their service on the Gould Alumni Board were trustee Donald M. Christie '60, Betty Jane Dargun Banton '43, and Michael S. Stowell '58.

GOULD HEADMASTER BILL CLOUGH led the dedication of the new Anderson and Bowhay athletic fields last Saturday. On the podium with him are Mrs. George Bowhay (the wife of the late-George Bowhay), Alan Ordway (chairman of the Board of Trustees), Maynard Morgan (head of the maintenance department) and Ordeil ("Coach") Anderson.

LARRY WARD, 1st-grader at Woodstock School, uses a computer in his classroom to review basic addition facts. All regular elementary classrooms in SAD #44 can now boast of having their own computer and printer.

Deadline this week for winter tourism tab

The deadline for The Citizen's winter tourism tabloid is this Friday. Businesses and other organizations wanting space in the popular winter recreation publication should call the office by 5 p.m. Friday, 824-2444.

Those with listings for the calendar should contact the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce.

The Citizen will print 35,000 copies of the colorful tabloid. They will be off the press in time for the Boston Ski Show in mid-November. They will also be distributed through ski shops and YMCAs in Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Maine. Sixteen thousand copies will be delivered as inserts in the Portsmouth Herald, in Portsmouth, N.H., and the remainder will be distributed at state information offices and through local inns, restaurants and skiways.
